Hustling Reds, Mighty Yanks Begin Baseball Classic

Paul Derringer, Ruffing Tangle As Play Opens

Fair, Warm Weather Prevails; New York Is Favorite

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Europe's destructive war faded far into the background today for thousands of baseball fans who thronged Yankee Stadium and clustered about radios for the opening of the game's greatest spectacle—the World's Series which this year pits the hustling Cincinnati Reds of the National League against the powerful New York Yankees of the American League.

The generally fair but warmer weather predicted for today was expected to produce an attendance of between 50,000 and 60,000 in Yankee Stadium.

Pitching for the Yankees who hope to hang up a new series record of four consecutive victories will be big Charley Ruffing who won 21 games this season. And carrying the hopes of the Reds who won their first major league pennant in 20 years this season will be Paul Derringer with a record of 25 wins.

McKechnie Optimistic

"Deacon" Bill McKechnie, the word-thrifty manager of the Reds, displayed nothing more than an optimistic smile while "Marse" Joe McCarthy, his Yanks 1 to 3 favorites to win the series and 8 to 5 favorites to cop the opener, said succinctly: "It all depends on the pitching."

World Series are no longer novelties to New Yorkers who have already had 17 in the home precincts but the rousing finish of the Reds this year produced a brisk business for ticket speculators and betting likewise was brisk.

CIRCLEVILLE FANS BELIEVE CINCINNATI TEAM TO WIN

Circleville remained loyal to the National League today with most of the city's baseball fans hoping, and many believing, that the Cincinnati Reds would take the New York Yankees into tow. Superior pitching, many believed, would do the trick, putting their faith in the good right arms of Bucky Walters, Paul Derringer and possibly Junior Thompson to outthrust Red Ruffing, Vernon Gomez, Monte Pearson and other American League pitchers.

Only a few were found who favored the American League powerhouse, and they were termed by their friends as being disloyal.

Swedish Freighter Ordered To German Port; Activity On Seas At High Pitch

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 4—A German warship today captured the Swedish freighter Korsholm on the high seas off Sandhamn and escorted it to a German port.

When captured, the 2,647-ton Korsholm was en route from Finland to Wilmington, Del., with a cargo of wood pulp and paper.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 4—Germany has ordered the sinking of all cargo-filled freighters carrying supplies to England, according to testimony on the records of the Norwegian sea court at Arendal today.

The captain of the Norwegian freighter Takstaas, sunk by a German U-boat, said the submarine commander told him that he had been ordered to sink all cargo-filled ships destined for English ports.

BERLIN, Oct. 4—An additional 72 steamers have been seized by German naval forces since Sept. 30 and a number of them which carried contraband have been escorted to German ports, an official Reich war communiqué announced today.

On the Western Front, the announcement stated, all was "quiet save for 'weak artillery activity' near Saarbrücken."

The communiqué added that there was "sporadic fighting with remnants of Polish units in the territory between the Russo-Germans."

DAIRYMEN SEEK MILK MARKETING DIVISION IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4—Representing 30,000 dairy farmers, the Ohio Milk Producers Federation today asked State Finance Director R. R. Bingham and Agriculture Director John T. Brown to establish within the Bureau of Markets a division of milk marketing. Siding with Federation were the Ohio Farm Bureau and the Ohio State Grange.

Sponsors of the movement told Bingham and Brown that a division could be set up for $10,000 a year, compared to the $20,000 to $50,000 spent for state milk commissions in Indiana, Pennsylvania and Michigan.

The division, if established, would compile facts for producers and handlers of butter, cheese, ice cream, evaporated milk and fluid milk. A specialist in dairy marketing would head the division.

CIRCLEVILLE'S SCHOOLS MOVE UP HOLIDAY DATES

Circleville schools will observe the Thanksgiving holiday on November 23 and 24 instead of November 20 and December 1 in compliance with the change in the date for Thanksgiving made by President Roosevelt.

Other business before the Board of Education Tuesday night included payment of bills and routine matters.

Vandenberg, Scheduled For Next Address, Listens Intently To Address

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A resolution putting the senate on record in favor of American efforts to bring about peace in the European war, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Johnson (D) Colorado.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—In whiplash language belying his drawl, Senator Connally (D) Texas, renewed senate neutrality debate today with a demand for enactment of the administration arms embargo repeal bill.

He coupled his demand with a plea for a navy that would "dominate both oceans" and increased military preparedness that would "meet any aggressor."

He deplored that the "crowned monarch of force rules some parts of the world today," and said the United States must be ready to defend itself.

As spectators again packed the

FRENCH WRITER CHARGES ADOLF HITLER 'SCARED'

PARIS, Oct. 4—Adolf Hitler is "scared," and therein lies the reason for his peace offensive, Elie Bois, editor-in-chief of the semi-official Petit Parisien, wrote today.

"After his inglorious victory in Poland," Bois declared, "Hitler is caught between two fires."

"He is scared. Note that well. He is scared—what you really call scared."

"He began to be afraid on the 23 of August when he began to deal with Stalin. Now he is a hundred times more scared."

"He would like to halt but he cannot. He is in the grip of his successive crimes. He has tried to hold on, but they are more powerful than he and they are dragging him rapidly down the slope that leads to total catastrophe."

"I don't know when, but that he will crash is an absolute certainty—as certain as two times two makes four."

The entire Paris press remains firmly opposed to any consideration of what Rightist Deputy Henri De Kerillis has called Hitler's "peace comedy."

TRUCKER NABBED AFTER SHOOTING OF TWO GIRLS

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 4—Richard Knight, 23-year-old Cambridge truck driver, was held by police today in connection with the shooting slaying of 19-year-old Ida Arthur and the wounding of her sister, Edna, 23. No charges have been filed against the youth.

Witnesses to the tragedy said the sisters were standing on a Cambridge street corner late last night when a truck pulled up and someone fired a shot directly at the girls. The charge struck Ida in the face, killing her almost instantly. The second victim was rushed to a hospital, where she was expected to recover.

Authorities said Knight once had "kept company" with Edna. The girls were enroute to their home in nearby Byesville.

Two witnesses to the tragedy also were held by police for questioning.

French Council Studies 'Peace'

Counter-Proposals May Be Offered, Ministers Declare

PARIS, Oct. 4—The French council of ministers met in secret session today to decide whether to reject any German peace offers in advance or to consider them and make counter-proposals which would mean the end of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's domination of Central Europe.

During the session, the council completed plans for establishment of a ministry of blockade to co-operate with existing agencies and the British government in the "economic war" designed to starve out Germany. Full details of this step were announced, but on the "peace front" all deliberations were shrouded in mystery.

What decision was reached—if any—was a closely guarded secret. A communiqué issued after the session gave no intimation of France's reaction to the "peace offensive" but there was every political and military indication that France remains reconciled that the war can only end when Hitler is beaten on the battlefield, not at a council table.

Would Not Accept

There is no chance whatever, one well-informed source declared, that either France or Poland or England would accept from Germany offers which are "transparently baseless."

The council met as the hull on the Western Front continued. War communiqué No. 61 announced that the night was calm except for artillery exchanges south of Zweibrücken. Thus undivided attention was focused on the government's deliberations.

Apparently the main subject of discussion was the manner in which the peace proposals are to be treated, when and if they come. One strong faction favors an outright rejection, refusing even to

CLEVELAND GIVES HAROLD BURTON HUGE PLURALITY

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4—Supporters of Mayor Harold H. Burton today foresaw his election to a third term on Nov. 7 with his rout of four candidates who sought one of the two nomination spots in yesterday's non-partisan primary.

Burton, polling 99,851 votes, swept the field of two Democrats, a Republican and a Communist and was more than two to one ahead of his nearest opponent, John E. O'Donnell, Republican. O'Donnell, a school board member, staved off the threat of William C. Dixon, Democrat, with 46,517 votes, and will oppose Burton at the general election.

Dixon, 35-year-old attorney, pulled up third with 35,375 votes, while the other two candidates failed to gain 15,000 votes. Adam J. Damm, Democrat, polled 9,847 and Mrs. Yetta Land, who announced before the election she "didn't have a chance," 3,228.

Only two wards in the city's 33 failed to give Burton a majority and his total vote was nearly 5,000 greater than the total of the other four candidates combined. The electorate gave him the greatest plurality he has ever gained.

The vote was heavier than forecast, 194,818 electors going to the polls after one of the dullest campaigns in the city's history.

FRICE, GLITT ENGAGE IN TOURNAMENT FINALS

Robert Frice and Charles Glitt, winners of the 'A' and 'B' golf tournaments at the Pickaway Country Club were engaging in a hot 36-hole match Wednesday for the club championship.

At the noon recess Frice was leading 2 up with 18 to play in the afternoon. Frice scored 39-39, 78 and Glitt had 42-38, 80 in the morning play.

European Bulletins

BERLIN—Air lines connecting Berlin with Copenhagen, Stockholm, Rome, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Sofia and Salonika resumed operations today despite the European war, according to an official announcement.

OSLO—Rumors that Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov may visit Berlin, perhaps this month, were reported by the newspaper Aftenposten today in a dispatch from the German capital.

LONDON—Formal military talks between British officials and the Turkish military mission headed by General Kiazim Orbay commenced today. The conversations, frankly aimed at wooing Turkey away from Soviet Russian blandishments, are expected to take up such matters as passage of British and French warships through the Turk-controlled Dardanelles in the event of military necessity.

OTTAWA—About 300 persons whose actions were deemed inimical to public safety are under detention today in three internment camps in Quebec, Ontario and Alberta, according to an announcement by the prime minister's office.

AMSTERDAM—The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Algemeen Handelsblad reported today that Chancellor Hitler will proceed tonight to Warsaw to lead the triumphal march of the German army into the former Polish capital.

RUSSIA TO ASK FINNS TO TALK OF 'CONDITIONS'

MOSCOW, Oct. 4—Soviet Russia went forward today with her program to extend her influence over the entire eastern Baltic region amid reports that Finland will be the next nation "invited" to send representatives to Moscow.

Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov held two conferences with Latvian Foreign Minister Wilhelm Munters and was scheduled to talk with Lithuanian Foreign Minister Juozas Urbys, who also is in Moscow.

Soviet dealings with Turkey appeared to be halted for the moment pending receipt of further instructions from Ankara by the Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, who has been conferred with Soviet authorities regarding the Dardanelles and other questions.

Another foreign official in Moscow, Col. Bojoff, head of the Bulgarian air force, who came to the Soviet capital to negotiate establishment of a commercial air line between Bulgaria and Russia, also was received by Molotov.

TURKS HIT POLE GRAB

LONDON, Oct. 4—The Turkish government today notified the Polish ambassador to Turkey that it does not recognize the Russo-German partition of Poland, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Ankara.

Help for Police

DESIGNED to make it safer for law officers guarding handcuffed prisoners without fear of being rendered unconscious with a blow on the head, a new safety belt has been adopted by the Cincinnati, O. police department. Suggested by Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan, above, the belts contain an inner lining of thin steel to prevent slashing. They are fastened around the prisoner's waist and hands and he then is placed in handcuffs which are locked to a ring in the front of the belt.

British Gird To Carry On War In Air

Munitions Industry Speeds Production Of Missiles To Halt Strato Attack

LONDON, Oct. 4—Now England is preparing for a possible "war in the stratosphere" was revealed today when an International News Service correspondent was permitted to visit the heart of England's munitions industry.

Preparing for all eventualities and mindful of Chancellor Hitler's threat at Danzig that the Reich may use new and terrible secret weapons in the European war, Britain is producing millions of shells for possible use against enemy stratosphere planes.

Creating vast reserves of these shells, the factories—one of them covered a square quarter-mile—have been working on a 24-hour basis and using mass production methods.

Steel bricks are being forged and shaped with the aid of German and American machines. If the secret weapons hinted at by Hitler are stratosphere planes, then it appears that England will

On European Front

International developments today:

PARIS—With every indication that neither France nor Britain will accept any "transparently baseless" German peace offers, the French council of ministers met to decide whether to reject Reich peace proffers in advance. The war bulletin announced a calm night except for artillery exchanges south of Zweibrücken.

BERLIN—Authoritative German sources felt that Premier Chamberlain of Britain, although he refused in his London speech yesterday to yield to threats, left the door open for peace. A war communiqué announced 73 additional steamers have been seized by German naval forces since September 30.

LONDON—Britain's economic warfare entered a new phase as financial plans were drawn for closer trade relations with the Scandinavian countries. Dominion governments soon will be asked to send representatives to London to form an imperial war cabinet.

MOSCOW—Finland was expected to be the next nation to be "invited" to send a representative to Moscow, following visits from the foreign ministers of Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia.

REICHSTAG TALK VITAL

Amsterdam Hints That Italy May Make Overtures To British Leaders

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 4—The Amsterdam Telegraaf reported that Chancellor Hitler's peace proposals will be communicated to the British government through the Italian embassy in London today.

LONDON, Oct. 4—The British government "may be said to be open for consideration of any peace plan offered by Nazi Germany through some legitimate neutral power," it was stated in a semi-official British broadcast today.

PARIS, Oct. 4—German aerial and naval attacks against England will be supported directly by Soviet Russia, the Amsterdam newspaper Telegraaf reported today, according to reports received in Paris.

The Telegraaf, according to these reports, said that the opening German hostilities against the Western powers will concentrate on naval and air assaults against Great Britain.

BERLIN, Oct. 4—The possibility that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may propose a brief truce in his forthcoming speech to the Reichstag to enable a thorough canvass of peace proposals was predicted in well-informed German sources today.

The Fuehrer, it was said, is anxious for this brief respite from open hostilities in order that all diplomatic means may be brought to bear to forestall large-scale war and provide time for the peace plan he intends to outline.

For this reason, the German version of "all quiet on the Western Front" will continue in effect under strictest orders from Berlin until after the Reichstag session, when Hitler will put it up to France and England whether hostilities are to reopen.

Triumvirate Ready

There were indications that the whole Russo-German-Italian diplomatic machine is now geared to the highest pitch in readiness for peace or war developments after the Fuehrer's speech.

All three will function speedily and in closest cooperation in connection with the Reichstag session.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A resolution putting the senate on record in favor of American efforts to bring about peace in the European war, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Johnson (D) Colorado.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—In whiplash language belying his drawl, Senator Connally (D) Texas, renewed senate neutrality debate today with a demand for enactment of the administration arms embargo repeal bill.

He coupled his demand with a plea for a navy that would "dominate both oceans" and increased military preparedness that would "meet any aggressor." He deplored that the "crowned monarch of force rules some parts of the world today," and said the United States must be ready to defend itself.

As spectators again packed the

FRENCH WRITER CHARGES ADOLF HITLER 'SCARED'

PARIS, Oct. 4—Adolf Hitler is "scared," and therein lies the reason for his peace offensive, Elie Bois, editor-in-chief of the semi-official Petit Parisien, wrote today.

"After his inglorious victory in Poland," Bois declared, "Hitler is caught between two fires."

"He is scared. Note that well. He is scared—what you really call

"He began to be afraid on the 23 of August when he began to deal with Stalin. Now he is a hundred times more scared."

"He would like to halt but he cannot. He is in the grip of his successive crimes. He has tried to hold on, but they are more powerful than he and they are dragging him rapidly down the slope that leads to total catastrophe."

"I don't know when, but that he will crash is an absolute certainty—as certain as two times two makes four."

The entire Paris press remains firmly opposed to any consideration of what Rightist Deputy Henri De Kerillis has called Hitler's "peace comedy."

TRUCKER NABBED AFTER SHOOTING OF TWO GIRLS

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 4—Richard Knight, 23-year-old Cambridge truck driver, was held by police today in connection with the shooting slaying of 19-year-old Ida Arthur and the wounding of her sister, Edna, 23. No charges have been filed against the youth.

Witnesses to the tragedy said the sisters were standing on a Cambridge street corner late last night when a truck pulled up and someone fired a shot directly at the girls. The charge struck Ida in the face, killing her almost instantly. The second victim was rushed to a hospital, where she was expected to recover.

Authorities said Knight once had "kept company" with Edna. The girls were enroute to their home in nearby Byesville.

Two witnesses to the tragedy also were held by police for questioning.

French Council Studies 'Peace'

Counter-Proposals May Be Offered, Ministers
Declare

PARIS, Oct. 4—The French council of ministers met in secret session today to decide whether to reject any German peace offers in advance or to consider them and make counter-proposals which would mean the end of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's domination of Central Europe.

During the session, the council completed plans for establishment of a ministry of blockade to co-operate with existing agencies and the British government in the "economic war" designed to starve out Germany. Full details of this step were announced, but on the "peace front" all deliberations were shrouded in mystery.

What decision was reached—if any—was a closely guarded secret. A communiqué issued after the session gave no intimation of France's reaction to the "peace offensive" but there was every political and military indication that France remains reconciled that the war can only end when Hitler is beaten on the battlefield, not at a council table.

Would Not Accept

There is no chance whatever, one well-informed source declared, that either France or Poland or England would accept from Germany offers which are "transparently baseless."

The council met as the hull of the Western Front continued. War communiqué No. 61 announced that the night was calm except for artillery exchanges south of Zweibrücken. Thus undivided attention was focused on the government's deliberations.

Apparently the main subject of discussion was the manner in which the peace proposals are to be treated, when and if they come. One strong faction favors an outright rejection, refusing even to

CLEVELAND GIVES HAROLD BURTON HUGE PLURALITY

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4—Supporters of Mayor Harold H. Burton today foresaw his election to a third term on Nov. 7 with his rout of four candidates who sought one of the two nomination spots in yesterday's non-partisan primary.

Burton, polling 99,851 votes, swept the field of two Democrats, a Republican and a Communist and was more than two to one ahead of his nearest opponent, John E. O'Donnell, Republican. O'Donnell, a school board member, staved off the threat of William C. Dixon, Democrat, with 46,517 votes, and will oppose Burton at the general election.

Dixon, 35-year-old attorney, pulled up third with 35,375 votes, while the other two candidates failed to gain 15,000 votes. Adam J. Damm, Democrat, polled 9,847 and Mrs. Yetta Land, who announced before the election she "didn't have a chance," 3,228.

Only two wards in the city's 33 failed to give Burton a majority and his total vote was nearly 5,000 greater than the total of the other four candidates combined. The electorate gave him the greatest plurality he has ever gained.

The vote was heavier than forecast, 194,818 electors going to the polls after one of the dullest campaigns in the city's history.

Amsterdam Hints That Italy
May Make Overtures To British Leaders

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 4—The Amsterdam Telegraaf reported that Chancellor Hitler's peace proposals will be communicated to the British government through the Italian embassy in London today.

LONDON, Oct. 4—The British government "may be said to be open for consideration of any peace plan offered by Nazi Germany through some legitimate neutral power," it was stated in a semi-official British broadcast today.

PARIS, Oct. 4—German aerial and naval attacks against England will be supported directly by Soviet Russia, the Amsterdam newspaper Telegraaf reported today, according to reports received in Paris. The Telegraaf, according to these reports, said that the opening German hostilities against the Western powers will concentrate on naval and air assaults against Great Britain.

BERLIN, Oct. 4—The possibility that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may propose a brief truce in his forthcoming speech to the Reichstag to enable a thorough canvass of peace proposals was predicted in well-informed German sources today.

The Fuehrer, it was said, is anxious for this brief respite from open hostilities in order that all diplomatic means may be brought to bear to forestall large-scale war and provide time for the peace plan he intends to outline.

For this reason, the German version of "all quiet on the Western Front" will continue in effect under strictest orders from Berlin until after the Reichstag session, when Hitler will put it up to France and England whether hostilities are to reopen.

Triumvirate Ready

There were indications that the whole Russo-German-Italian diplomatic machine is now geared to the highest pitch in readiness for peace or war developments after the Fuehrer's speech.

All three will function speedily and in closest cooperation in connection with the peace plan.

Munitions Industry Speeds
Production Of Missiles
To Halt Strato Attack

LONDON, Oct. 4—Now England is preparing for a possible "war in the stratosphere" was revealed today when an International News Service correspondent was permitted to visit the heart of England's munitions industry.

Preparing for all eventualities and mindful of Chancellor Hitler's threat at Danzig that the Reich may use new and terrible secret weapons in the European war, Britain is producing millions of shells for possible use against enemy stratosphere planes.

Creating vast reserves of these shells, the factories—one of them covered a square quarter-mile—have been working on a 24-hour basis and using mass production methods.

Steel bricks are being forged and shaped with the aid of German and American machines. If the secret weapons hinted at by Hitler are stratosphere planes, then it appears that England will

International developments today:
PARIS—With every indication that neither France nor Britain will accept any "transparently baseless" German peace offers, the French council of ministers met to decide whether to reject Reich peace proffers in advance. The war bulletin announced a calm except for artillery exchanges south of Zweibrücken.

BERLIN—Authoritative German sources felt that Premier Chamberlain of Britain, although he refused in his London speech yesterday to yield to threats, left the door open for peace. A war communiqué announced 72 additional steamers have been seized by German naval forces since September 30.

LONDON—Britain's economic warfare entered a new phase as financial plans were drawn for closer trade relations with the Scandinavian countries. Dominion governments soon will be asked to send representatives to London to form an imperial war cabinet.

MOSCOW—Finland was expected to be the next nation to be "invited" to send a representative to Moscow, following visits from the foreign ministers of Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia.

formity with events, it was emphasized.

Informed German quarters pressed to see an opening wedge in the address before the House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, although it was officially stated that the speech was not clear, contained nothing notable and nothing new, and that a political answer had been expected to the Russo-German peace overture.

It is assumed that once it becomes clear to Berlin that the Allies are determined to continue the war, wholesale action will develop speedily, with "surprises" likely. The Stalin-Hitler combination is expected to expand beyond its present scope.

Meanwhile, the last of German divisions in Poland streamed toward the West, jamming railway stations and tying up transportation in the Berlin area.

Fuehrer to Visit Warsaw
Hitler will go to Warsaw tonight to inspect the latest provincial capital of the Greater German Reich. He insisted on making the trip immediately despite the wishes of the German commanders in Poland to efface all traces of war before his symbolic seizure of the city.

BERGDOLL BACK ON STAND FOR NEW QUESTIONING

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll was recalled to the witness stand at his court-martial on escape-and-desertion charges today in connection with his claim that he was in this country for seven of the 19 years he was a fugitive and believed abroad.

His claim had been advanced in the hope of modifying the charges under the statute of limitations. Bergdoll's witness-stand appearance was brief in the extreme, confined merely to his identification of a passport, bearing his picture, issued under the name of Bennett Nash at Ottawa, in June, 1929. His wife, Bertha, followed him to identify her endorsement on checks which she said she received from her husband.

PENSION LISTS SET NEW MARK FOR SEPTEMBER

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Ohio's old age pension rolls reached a new high during September when 120,925 persons received aid, Tom McCaw, chief of the aid for the aged division, reported today.

Total payments to recipients last month amounted to $2,743,814. The average grant per recipient was $22.69, four cents above that of August, when $2,695,615 was paid out. An increase of 1,912 in the number of recipients over the previous month also was noted.

Old age pension rolls, McCaw said, have shown a net increase of 9,742. He attributed the gain to the division's activities in investigating pending cases. Approximately 15,000 cases are now pending.

CONNALLY ASKS FOR REPEAL OF ARMS EMBARGO

Texasan Urges Plea
For Navy To Dominate
Both Oceans

galleries and house members lined senate walls the sharp-tongued Texan held out arms embargo repeal as the road to American peace and neutrality with honor. He charged the embargo is an aid to "outlaw and aggressor nations."

"Under the present embargo," he warned, "we will be brought to the brink of war, perhaps plunged into its dark and cruel depths."

Vandenberg Listens
Connally took the floor shortly after noon and his opponent for the day, Senator Vandenberg (R) Michigan, listened intently. Retention of the embargo, he argued, permits the "outlaw" nation to arm in peacetime and strike out against a defenseless victim secure in the knowledge that the U. S. arms embargo will clamp down and prevent the victim from buying arms to defend himself.

"If we desire peace," Connally summed, "if our compelling motive is to remain aloof from the horrors and terrors and miseries of the war now ravaging Europe, if it is our desire that American boys remain on their own soil to pursue their normal occupations and callings, rather than to be called to the battlefield to shed their blood and perhaps to die, we should adopt the joint resolution now pending (the embargo repeal bill) instead of retaining the present embargo act."

Denying claims of the opposition forces that repeal would bring trouble Connally accused them of "baseless statements," and said they were "trying to frighten the people."

Connally argued that the existing law prohibiting arms sales but permitting American boats to haul other commodities sold to belligerents may bring war to the United States. He cited a long list of German submarine attacks on neutral shipping during the World War, and pointed out that most of these attacks fell upon vessels carrying non-war commodities.

"What Germany did in the World War she will do in this war," Connally warned. "What she did in the World War she is already doing now. Unrestricted submarine warfare on all neutral commerce has already begun. Germany did not hesitate to sink our ships before we entered the World War and were at peace. She will not hesitate to do so now."

NOBLE BARR PUT ON PAYROLL AS FIREMAN IN CITY

Noble E. Barr, 158 Town Street, was notified Wednesday by Karl Hermann, safety director, that he has been appointed a city fireman and is to report for duty on October 10.

Mr. Barr's appointment was made by Mr. Herrmann from the eligible list provided by the Civil Service Commission. Mr. Barr is a mill employee of the Ralston-Purina Company. His pay will be $100 monthly.

Council recently passed an ordinance providing for an additional fireman in the department to comply with state regulations. Under the new regulations firemen work 72 hours weekly. They are on duty 24 hours then off a similar period. Every 14 days they are entitled to an extra 24 hours off duty. A two week vacation with pay is provided. City firemen now work 84 hours a week.

Work on Four Years
Gradual conversion of British industrial plants for munitions manufacturing began four years ago.

Now with the program in full swing, thousands of men are employed in these munitions which are still operated by the owners of the industries under government inspection. The government furnishes materials and machinery for the work.

At present the work is done by men, who can be trained in a week to perform most of the operations, but already plans are afoot to substitute women and thus free the men for military service. It is estimated women can perform 40 percent of this work.

The manager of one plant said Germany has similar aircraft shells. Improvement of manufacturing methods permits production of shells in England now on a scale six times faster than during the World War, with only half the amount of labor involved.

MIDLAND BUYS ELECTRIC PLANT AT CLARKSBURG

The sale of the Clarksburg electric light plant to the Ohio Midland Company was approved by the village council Tuesday night. The sale had been approved earlier by the Board of Public Affairs.

The sale price was reported as $1,000. The company had leased poles and wires from the city since 1926.

Two five-year contracts were signed with the company. One was for supplying power to street lights and the other on commercial and residential lighting. Under the new rates the street lighting will be reduced $108 annually. The reduction on commercial and residential lighting will be reduced about $602.33 annually divided among the consumers.

Council authorized Marshal Carey Ater to deputize two extra officers for the week preceding Halloween.

HIGHLAND JUDGE TO HEAR CRITES, PURINA CONTEST

Judge George W. McDowell of Highland County will come to Circleville next Monday to hear the case of the Crites Oil Company against the Ralston Purina Company.

The oil company seeks a mandatory and permanent injunction against the milling firm alleging the erection of structures by milling company interfere with the operation of the oil business.

In the petition the oil company states that three tracts of land were sold to the milling company in July, 1935. It contends that the oil company was to have the right to space for unloading two cars of petroleum products on a spur track, a pipe line easement and the right of ingress and egress over the property to the spur track. The suit says the milling firm, in violation of the oil company's rights and easements placed structures on the real estate that destroys the access to the spur track.

The request for a temporary injunction was denied by Judge Phil A. Henderson of Logan. The case will be presented on its merits before Judge McDowell.

Judge Baumann issued the contempt order at the close of Mrs. Fink's trial when a woman juror revealed that Mrs. Slessman discussed the case with her and five other jurors. Mrs. Fink was acquitted by reason of insanity and sent to Lima State Hospital.

formity with events, it was emphasized.

Informed German quarters professed to see an opening wedge in the address before the House of Commons yesterday by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, although it was officially stated that the speech was not clear, contained nothing notable and nothing new, and that a political answer had been expected to the Russo-German peace overture.

It is assumed that once it becomes clear to Berlin that the Allies are determined to continue the war, wholesale action will develop speedily, with "surprises" likely. The Stalin-Hitler combination is expected to expand beyond its present scope.

Meanwhile, the last of German divisions in Poland streamed toward the West, jamming railway stations and tying up transportation in the Berlin area.

Fuehrer to Visit Warsaw

Hitler will go to Warsaw tonight to inspect the latest provincial capital of the Greater German Reich. He insisted on making the trip immediately despite the wishes of the German commanders in Poland to efface all traces of war before his symbolic seizure of the city.

BERGDOLL BACK ON STAND FOR NEW QUESTIONING

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 — Grover Cleveland Bergdoll was recalled to the witness stand at his court-martial on escape-and-desertion charges today in connection with his claim that he was in this country for seven of the 19 years he was a fugitive and believed abroad.

His claim had been advanced in the hope of modifying the charges under the statute of limitations.

Bergdoll's witness-stand appearance was brief in the extreme, confined merely to his identification of a passport, bearing his picture, issued under the name of Bennett Nash at Ottawa, in June, 1929. His wife, Bertha, followed him to identify her endorsement on checks which she said she received from her husband.

PENSION LISTS SET NEW MARK FOR SEPTEMBER

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4 — Ohio's old age pension rolls reached a new high during September when 120,925 persons received aid, Tom McCaw, chief of the aid for the aged division, reported today.

Total payments to recipients last month amounted to $2,743,814. The average grant per recipient was $22.69, four cents above that of August, when $2,695,615 was paid out. An increase of 1,912 in the number of recipients over the previous month also was noted.

Old age pension rolls, McCaw said, have shown a net increase of 9,742. He attributed the gain to the division's activities in investigating pending cases. Approximately 15,000 cases are now pending.

galleries and house members lined senate walls the sharp-tongued Texan held out arms embargo repeal as the road to American peace and neutrality with honor." He charged the embargo is an aid to "outlaw and aggressor nations."

"Under the present embargo," he warned, "we will be brought to the brink of war, perhaps plunged into its dark and cruel depths."

Vandenberg Listens

Connally took the floor shortly after noon and his opponent for the day, Senator Vandenberg (R) Michigan, listened intently. Permission of the embargo, he argued, permits the "outlaw" nation to arm in peacetime and strike out against a defenseless victim secure in the knowledge that the U. S. arms embargo will clamp down and prevent the victim from buying arms to defend himself."

"If we desire peace," Connally summed, "if our compelling motive is to remain aloof from the horrors and terrors and miseries of the war now ravaging Europe, if it is our desire that American boys remain on their own soil to pursue their normal occupations and callings, rather than to be called to the battlefield to shed their blood and perhaps to die, we should adopt the joint resolution now pending (the embargo repeal bill) instead of retaining the present embargo act."

Claims Baseless

Denying claims of the opposition forces that repeal would bring trouble Connally accused them of "baseless statements," and said they were "trying to frighten the people."

Connally argued that the existing law prohibiting arms sales but permitting American boats to haul other commodities sold to belligerents may bring war to the United States. He cited a long list of German submarine attacks on neutral shipping during the World War, and pointed out that most of these attacks fell upon vessels carrying non-war commodities.

"What Germany did in the World War she will do in this war," Connally warned. "What she did in the World War she is already doing now. Unrestricted submarine warfare on all neutral commerce has already begun. Germany did not hesitate to sink our ships before we entered the World War and were at peace. She will not hesitate to do so now."

NOBLE BARR PUT ON PAYROLL AS FIREMAN IN CITY

Noble E. Barr, 158 Town Street, was notified Wednesday by Karl Herrmann, safety director, that he has been appointed a city fireman and is to report for duty on October 10.

Work on Four Years

Gradual conversion of British industrial plants for munitions manufacturing began four years ago.

Now with the program in full swing, thousands of men are employed in these munitions which are still operated by the owners of the industries under government inspection. The government furnishes materials and machinery for the work.

At present the work is done by men, who can be trained in a week to perform most of the operations, but already plans are afoot to substitute women and thus free the men for military service. It is estimated women can perform 40 percent of this work.

The manager of one plant said Germany has similar aircraft shells.

Improvement of manufacturing methods permits production of shells in England now on a scale six times faster than during the World War, with only half the amount of labor involved.

MIDLAND BUYS ELECTRIC PLANT AT CLARKSBURG

The sale of the Clarksburg electric light plant to the Ohio Midland Company was approved by the village council Tuesday night. The sale had been approved earlier by the Board of Public Affairs.

The sale price was reported as $1,000. The company had leased poles and wires from the city since 1926.

Two five-year contracts were signed with the company. One was for supplying power to street lights and the other on commercial and residential lighting. Under the new rates the street lighting will be reduced $108 annually. The reduction on commercial and residential lighting will be reduced about $602.33 annually divided among the consumers.

Council authorized Marshal Carey Ater to deputize two extra officers for the week preceding Halloween.

HIGHLAND JUDGE TO HEAR CRITES, PURINA CONTEST

Judge George W. McDowell of Highland County will come to Circleville next Monday to hear the case of the Crites Oil Company against the Ralston Purina Company.

The oil company seeks a mandatory and permanent injunction against the milling firm alleging the erection of structures by milling company interfere with the operation of the oil business.

In the petition the oil company states that three tracts of land were sold to the milling company in July, 1935. It contends that the oil company was to have the right to space for unloading two cars of petroleum products on a spur track, a pipe line easement and the right of ingress and egress over the property to the spur track. The suit says the milling firm, in violation of the oil company's rights and easements placed structures on the real estate that destroys the access to the spur track.

The request for a temporary injunction was denied by Judge Phil A. Henderson of Logan. The case will be presented on its merits before Judge McDowell.

Port Captain Roland Litchfield explained that an American cruiser, on patrol off the coast, ordered the Evangeline to halt during her voyage to Boston and identify herself. Captain William Corning, of the Evangeline, halted his vessel, gave the proper identification by radio, and then proceeded, Captain Litchfield said.

Traffic Officer's Fate Up To Ballot Scheduled This Evening

TRUCK TALK ON DOCKET

Fire Chief Wise Invites Rural Officials To Attend Session

The ordinance for the addition of a motorcycle patrolman to the police force will be up for a vote in council Wednesday night.

William M. Reid, chairman of the ordinance committee, said some amendments had been made in the legislation and it was ready for the consideration of council. The ordinance has had three readings in council. A vote was delayed for the amendments.

The amendments provide for the motorcycle patrolman to be on day duty. This was not specified in the ordinance when it was given three readings.

It was believed that the ordinance would be passed by council as numerous complaints from residents about traffic conditions in the city resulted in preparation of the legislation. A similar ordinance, considered some months ago, was voted down. The complaints following this action of council resulted in another ordinance being considered.

Fire Truck Talked

Considerable discussion is expected Wednesday night on the cooperative program for a fire truck. This program involves the purchase of a truck by the county, city and townships surrounding Circleville. The truck would be used for rural runs and dangerous city fires. Commissioners and officials of townships surrounding the city have been invited by Fire Chief Palmer Wise to meet with council. The chief has arranged for a representative of a firm selling fire fighting equipment to discuss the cooperative program with council and present some figures on the cost of suitable equipment, and how this cost could be divided fairly among the subdivisions.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

Secretary Morgenthau, took the trouble to examine the 139 version.

What they found confirmed their fears that the military boys, supported by certain Administration big shots, were quietly planning to shelve the normal government machinery in event of war and set up a super-government of big business.

So they lost no time bringing the tell-tale paragraph to Roosevelt's attention. To say that he didn't like its pointed implications is putting it mildly.

PLENTY OF EXPERTS

Significantly, the President announced the exit of the War Resources Board without informing either the Army or Navy of his intentions. They knew nothing about it until they read the news in the papers. But Roosevelt was not so secretive with his inner circle advisers.

"The Government has plenty of experts to handle any emergency that may arise," he declared in effect. "In 1917 the Government was small and ill-equipped to cope with the great problems that arose when the country went to war. The situation is far different now. The Government has been greatly expanded and has experienced and expert personnel to meet any emergency."

"For example: There would be no need to set up a Food Administrator, as was done in 1917, because the Agriculture Department has both the power and personnel to do such a job. And that goes for practically all other phases of activity. We don't want or need any super-government run by big business men either in peace or war. From my experience in the Wilson Cabinet I know that in more than one instance highly-touted business tycoons were flops as public administrators."

NO BERNIE BARUCH

The first list of names sent to

Roosevelt for appointment to the War Resources Board had as chairman Bernard Baruch, head of Wilson's War Industries Board.

Also on the list was the name of Leonard Ayres, the Cleveland statistician, as representative of the public, and that of Edward McGrady, able former Assistant Secretary of Labor, as spokesman for labor. None of the three was chosen.

The reason why has never been satisfactorily explained. Ayres and McGrady did not know that they had been proposed, so said nothing. But Baruch had been secretly tipped off that he was to be chairman, and when he wasn't named, naturally he was offended. A journalist intimate launched a caustic attack on the Board, with the result that its members hot-footed up to New York and held several secret consultations with Baruch in an effort to placate him.

JIM FARLEY

Returning to his hotel from a bedtime walk, genial Jim Farley was accosted by a well-dressed stranger who said, "General, you don't know me but my name is Bob Jennings, Jr., of Franklin, Tenn., and I had the pleasure of meeting you at the Philadelphia convention."

"Glad to see you again, Mr. Jennings."

"Thanks, General, that's very kind of you. This is a special pleasure to me, meeting you tonight."

"In what way?" asked Farley. "Well, when I went home after meeting you the last time, I told my friends I'd shaken hands with you but they wouldn't believe me. Said I was pullin' on. Now I can tell them I did it again."

"You can do better than that," smiled Farley. Leading Jennings over to the newspaper counter, he bought a paper and in the upper margin wrote in the usual Farleyesque green ink, "Glad to

Gale Hanover Building New Home at Fire Scene

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

Gale Hanover is building a seven-room, modern, frame dwelling in Walnut Township on the site of the large residence destroyed by fire several months ago and known as the Robert Peters homestead. Work on the new structure is in the plastering stage and when completed will be occupied by the son-in-law and daughter, John and Mrs. Hite. Willard Barch is the contractor.

Ashville
And while telling of building, it might be well to notify those who have occasion to travel through the busy building section of East Lawn addition, that they do so at their own risk. Hatchets, saws, spikes, scuffling and men when in swift motion are actually dangerous. Fair warning.

Ashville
Had the "tables turned" on us Tuesday and instead of us handing out our usual "third degree stuff" it was delivered from the other end. Contacted or rather he, a school book salesman with territory covering the state, encountered us, looking, he said, for an old man but one who had lived here a long while and who could tell him a few things he hoped to learn. Said his grandfather Robinson had left here by covered wagon conveyance a long while ago for central Illinois, leaving here a number of relatives, and of course, his too. And it were these he would be glad to find. We directed him to Will Hall.

Circleville Lodge of Elks was complimented on its financial condition and the work of its officers Tuesday evening when Harry Foehr of Portsmouth, district deputy grand exalted ruler, made his official inspection. Paul D. Miller, exalted ruler, and his regular corps of officers filled the chairs.

Foehr discussed the work of the grand lodge and outlined the program being carried on at the Bedford, Va. home for aged Elks. He urged all Elks to watch out for unemployed members of the lodge and to do their best to provide them with work when possible.

Henry Mader and his son, Carl, became members of the lodge at the initiation service.

The inspection followed a fried chicken dinner served by Jimmy Carpenter and his co-workers. More than 200 Elks enjoyed the evening. After the inspection bingo and a floor show were enjoyed.

To see that all hands were there and at it, strolled around to the big Cooper "lubridrome" under construction and among the several we found at work were Charles Fowler, Park Cook, Lawrence Peters and Scott Scothorn. And in the center of this big building, Mr. Fowler was digging into fine soil, once Doctor Steward's garden. But we are sure this is alright to Doc. The big, once Steward's Hall was a part of the many things he did for Ashville, in its building.

COUNCIL TO VOTE ON STATUTE TO ADD POLICEMAN

Traffic Officer's Fate Up To Ballot Scheduled This Evening

TRUCK TALK ON DOCKET

Fire Chief Wise Invites Rural Officials To Attend Session

The ordinance for the addition of a motorcycle patrolman to the police force will be up for a vote in council Wednesday night.

William M. Reid, chairman of the ordinance committee, said some amendments had been made in the legislation and it was ready for the consideration of council. The ordinance has had three readings in council. A vote was delayed for the amendments.

The amendments provide for the motorcycle patrolman to be on duty. This was not specified in the ordinance when it was given three readings.

It was believed that the ordinance would be passed by council as numerous complaints from residents about traffic conditions in the city resulted in preparation of the legislation. A similar ordinance, considered some months ago, was voted down. The complaints following this action of council resulted in another ordinance being considered.

Fire Truck Talked

Considerable discussion is expected Wednesday night on the cooperative program for a fire truck. This program involves the purchase of a truck by the county, city and townships surrounding Circleville. The truck would be used for rural runs and dangerous city fires. Commissioners and officials of townships surrounding the city have been invited by Fire Chief Talmer Wise to meet with council. The chief has arranged for a representative of a firm selling fire fighting equipment to discuss the cooperative program with council and present some figures on the cost of suitable equipment and how this cost could be divided fairly among the subdivisions.

COUNCIL STUDIES NEEDS AT STATE FAIRGROUNDS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 4.—Members of the Ohio State Fair Advisory Council today studied plans for a long-range improvement program at the fairgrounds.

The council met with Governor Bricker yesterday and elected George A. Dix, Delaware, chairman; John W. Galbreath, Columbus, vice chairman, and Win Kinman, state fair manager, secretary. Immediate attention of the committee will be given remedying the need for revamping of the fairground's sewerage system and for furnishing adequate water facilities.

Secretary Morgenthau, took the trouble to examine the 139 version.

What they found confirmed their fears that the military boys, supported by certain Administration big shots, were quietly planning to shelve the normal government machinery in event of war and set up a super-government of big business.

So they lost no time bringing the tell-tale paragraph to Roosevelt's attention. To say that he didn't like its pointed implications is putting it mildly.

PLENTY OF EXPERTS

Significantly, the President announced the exit of the War Resources Board without informing either the Army or Navy of his intentions. They knew nothing about it until they read the news in the papers. But Roosevelt was not so secretive with his inner circle advisers.

"The Government has plenty of experts to handle any emergency that may arise," he declared in effect. "In 1917 the Government was small and ill-equipped to cope with the great problems that arose when the country went to war. The situation is far different now. The Government has been greatly expanded and has experienced and expert personnel to meet any emergency.

"For example: There would be no need to set up a Food Administrator, as was done in 1917, because the Agriculture Department has both the power and personnel to do such a job. And that goes for practically all other phases of activity. We don't want or need any super-government run by big business men either in peace or war. From my experience in the Wilson Cabinet I know that in more than one instance highly-touted business tycoons were flops as public administrators.

NO BERNIE BARUCH

The first list of names sent to

Roosevelt for appointment to the War Resources Board had as chairman Bernard Baruch, head of Wilson's War Industries Board.

Also on the list was the name of Leonard Ayres, the Cleveland statistician, as representative of the public, and that of Edward McGrady, able former Assistant Secretary of Labor, as spokesman for labor. None of the three was chosen.

The reason why has never been satisfactorily explained. Ayres and McGrady did not know that they had been proposed, so said nothing. But Baruch had been secretly tipped off that he was to be chairman, and when he wasn't named, naturally he was offended. A journalist intimate launched a caustic attack on the Board, with the result that its members hot-footed up to New York and held several secret consultations with Baruch in an effort to placate him.

FOREIGN INVESTMENT

AS Americans begin to have money burning holes in their pockets again,
the thrifty ones start looking around for places to invest it. And many of them are doubtless thinking of foreign investments.

Up jumps Roger W. Babson, veteran of many a financial war, and says "Don't!"
He has never favored the buying of government bonds, he says, except those of the United States and Canada, and is now more opposed than ever to pouring American money into foreign treasuries.

The small nations of northwestern Europe have kept their bonds in the investment class, he concedes, but the war has badly jolted them. The big nations are adding tremendous and unpredictable war debts to obligations already so great that they may never be paid. Between the debts on which our European war debtors have suspended payments, we could probably add up enough sour bonds to pay half our present national debt if we had the money. Why throw billions away?

Some of those foreign loans probably helped foreign business and created foreign good will in ways that brought part of our money back indirectly. But mostly it has been lost forever. If our investors must take a chance, better take it at home.
As Mr. Babson poetically expresses it, Americans should "dig for diamonds in their own backyards."

KILLING OUR BEST

A PESSIMISTIC picture is painted by Dr.
Earnest A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist. Modern warfare kills the "biologically sound", those who are physically ablest and best, leaving the deformed, unfit and insane to carry on the species
and inviting the propagation of a "race of imbeciles."

"What we should do," he insists, "is to divert a modicum of that high intelligence and creative ability which is too nearly monopolized by mechanical science to the study of ways and means of repairing and improving the human machine. We must build the future of humanity, if there is to be any future, not upon mechanical science, which is up to this point the greatest human achievement, but upon man's biology, of which we know virtually nothing."

There is obviously danger along the line suggested by Dr. Hooton. It is natural that a scholar interest in the physical side of man should worry most about that.
What many others are worrying about is the human soul and what this material civilization is doing to it.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

WHILE NOBODY doubts that Roosevelt's and State Secretary Hull's sympathies are entirely on the side of the European democratic countries against the totalitarian lineup, it doesn't follow that they do not think Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Edouard Daladier of France have bungled their old world policies.
There's no quotable authority for it, but Washington's general impression is that the White House tenant and his cabinet chief regard these two government heads as having been completely out-smarted by Herr Hitler. And it's said they haven't much patience with such a couple of supposedly top-notch statesmen for being diplomatized half to death by Berlin's presumably semi-nutty, formerly house-painting Fuehrer.

It seems to be the administration's theory that, had Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier stood pat against Germany a good deal sooner, there needn't have been any war.

NOT VERY DEMOCRATIC

The theory seems to be that the pair of them are mildly Fascist themselves. They're anti-Communist, certainly. They're not regarded as having been even Nazistic. And probably they were out-and-out Fascists. They're suspected, though, of not having been especially good democrats. Consequently, it's assumed that they fussed along,

temporizing, until they lost control of developments altogether.

Yes, the administration is
"pro" the democracies, but apparently it hasn't a very good opinion of Chamberlain and Daladier.
Their war record to date hasn't been overly brilliant, either.
There's an obvious hunch in Washington that they're likely to acquiesce in peace terms from victor for the time being. Not that anyone believes such a peace could last long, but it might partly save the Anglo-French face temporarily.

Well, that's their funeral. It's
THEIR war thus far; not ours.
Still, we have an indirect interest in its outcome.

SPAIN VERSUS RUSSIA

Spain figures in the equation.
It's a comparatively trifling country, but it weighs a bit. The Spanish civil struggle mainly was between the Catholics and non-Catholics. Russia gave a certain amount of air to the non-Catholics—maybe not much, but some aviators and planes.

That was enough to prejudice
the Spanish Catholics against the Russians, anyway. Germany didn't figure appreciably in the row. Italy did.

It Duce sent thousands of soldiers to help the Catholic Spanish forces, in opposition to the non-Catholic rebels. I surmise that Mussolini isn't much of a Catholic but, for political reasons, that was the side he was on.

The Spanish Catholics, under General Franco, won. That seemed to align them with Italy.
Italy, being aligned with Germany, seemingly brought Spain into the Italian-German combination.

This was nice for Germany,
since it promised a Spanish enemy for France along the Pyrenees in the event of a Franco-German clash in the opposite direction.

But Italy stays neutral. Worse
(for Germany) Hitler has cooked up an alliance with Russia, which is violently anti-Catholic. It follows that Catholic Spain is anti-German, because Germany is pro-
Russian, which is anti-Catholic.

Isn't that a sweet mixup?
So here's a count against Germany.

Daily Washington
Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
BRITISH STOP U. S. SHIP

WASHINGTON—No one in Washington is advertising it, but already there is British interference with American shipping in certain areas. Kept in the dark, but significant has been the British detention of a vessel belonging to the American West African Line which was carrying supplies to Monrovia, Liberia, to build the American Legation.

The vessel was held up by the British at the port of Freetown on the coast of Sierra Leone, a British West African possession. The vessel was searched and finally released.

The supplies for the American Legation were carried under the diplomatic seal of the United States, but despite this they apparently aroused British suspicion.

State Department officials are mystified as to why the British were interested in these supplies. Their only explanation is that the supplies might have included dynamite for blasting the foundation of the legation building. The new legation will stand upon a rocky point.

The American West African Line flies
the American flag, and its agency is the Barber Steamship Line of New York.

NOTE—During the first part of the World War the search and seizure of American vessels by the British caused almost as much official American resentment as German submarine sinkings. Some State Department protests sent to England were just as vigorous as those sent to Germany.

NO WAR TYCOONS

One important factor behind the President's plan to disband the War Resources Board was a short paragraph buried in the 1939 version of the Army's Industrial Mobilization Plan which he did not see.

The Mobilization Plan is the blue-print of a semi-dictatorial super-government which the General Staff proposes in case the U. S. becomes involved in war, and here is the paragraph which Roosevelt missed:

"The personnel to fill positions of responsibility in the War Resources Ad-

They're More Than "Just Baby Teeth"

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"OH! they're just his baby teeth."

This kind of assurance has caused a great deal of trouble in after-life.

It is true that the baby teeth are soon lost, but they lay the foundation for the permanent set of teeth.
They should be cared for in spite of the fact that they are only temporary visitors, for they play a big part in the health, happiness and well-being of the child. If they become decayed, the decay may advance into the jaw and cause permanent damage.

The hygiene of the child's mouth should begin as soon as the first of the baby teeth appear. Perhaps it is not vitally important to the actual questions of general interest

his column.

physical health of the child that lessons in tooth brushing should occur as early as three or four years. But it lays the foundation for habits which are very important later. In children's teeth, particularly, inefficient care is the commonest cause of dental decay.

Majority Disregard Teeth
Lest it be thought that advice of this kind is platitudinous, I refer to the estimate of a government official that four-fifths of the people in our enlightened land do not brush their teeth.

At the age of five or six, on the average, the first permanent tooth makes its appearance. It does not replace or push out any temporary tooth. It erupts behind the row of temporary teeth. It is the first permanent molar. Counting from the central tooth, it is the sixth in line.
Sometimes it appears in the lower jaw, sometimes in the upper. Parents are inclined to think that this is the last of the baby teeth.

It is, in fact, the first of the permanent teeth and must be conserved.

The first permanent tooth is particularly apt to decay. It erupts at a time when the body is growing and many demands for calcium are made.

Should Watch It

Decay showing up in this tooth
may be disregarded by the parents and thought of little consequence.
Parents should watch this particular tooth very carefully and see that oral hygiene is carried out very specially.

Many a mouth has been wrecked by neglect of this knowledge. The first permanent molar is really the keystone of the arch of the jaw.
Dentists tell me that a fifth of the mouths they see have one of these first molars missing. And mouth deformities and malocclusion are common as a consequence.

The other teeth arrive as follows: The central incisors at the age of six to eight years. These two front buck teeth draw attention to themselves and are likely to be thought the first permanent teeth.
After they appear the lateral incisors next to them push out the temporary teeth at the age of about seven to nine years, and then the large lateral teeth appear at the age of 11 to 13. The last to appear,
of course, are the wisdom teeth.

Shadow Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Guests at Hill House, a New England summer resort, are amazed when Dr. Paul Rutherford tells them that his mother has been poisoned by a small drink of whiskey he thinks was intended for him. Among them are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé, Duncan; Dr. Paul's sister, Pauline; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton, Joseph Barry and Dr. Neal
Peake and Josie Peake, children of Mrs. Peake, the proprietor. There has been "some talk about" the spite fence erected by Mrs. Peake's estranged sister, Miss Ivy Newcomb, near Hill House, and a recent prowler heard by some of the guests. Dr. Paul and Dr. Neal try to discover who poisoned the whiskey. Meanwhile, just as she retires, Sally hears furtive footsteps overhead. Sally hears Neal's admiration by making friends with his huge dog, Tinker. Tinker Josie is amazed to find that someone has ransacked her room. Still baffled over the prowler, the poisoned whiskey and the ransacked room, most of the guests start for the beach. Then Josie has an altercation with her brother, Neal,
over her friendship with Alan Murray,
whose mother is Miss Ivy's best friend.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

WITH THE words: "It isn't his fault if his mother is Miss Ivy's best friend," Josie tucked her hand under my arm, and we walked along to the beach wagon together.
Rhoda and Duncan were just ahead of us. Whether Josie would have said anything to me then if we had been alone, I do not know.

Her face was like a thundercloud.
And when Neal, with Coral and Barry joined us, he, too, looked mad enough to chew tacks.

We piled into the beach wagon and Neal started the motor. As he let out his clutch and the car began to move, Coral gave a little squel.

"Oh, Neal," she admonished him,
"you've forgotten Bruce."
Neal grunted, but applied his brake. "He knows what time we start back." His tone was irritable.
"Where is he?"

"I'll find him." Barry obligingly scrambled out and went back to the beach.

"What's the matter with my boy?" cooed Coral in a voice plainly audible to us all.

Neal looked at her. I thought he wasn't in the mood for her cajoling.
His gaze went back to the content to let her know enough alone. I believe now that her object was to foster trouble between Neal and his sister, though then I thought it just her cat's paw desire to flout her influence over him. If the last is true, she received the surprise of her life.

"I saw you talking to that Alan Murray," she said spitefully over her shoulder to Josie. "I shouldn't think you would do such a thing
when you know how worried it makes—"

"Coral!" Neal turned savagely upon her. "Josie and I can settle our difficulties without interference from anyone."

I gasped at tone and words. The last I thought an intimation to me not to try any placating as I had before.

"Neal!" Coral's tone was of outrage. "You needn't speak to me like that. I won't stand it." If she thought to intimidate Neal,
she was mistaken.

"You heard what I said," he returned curtly. "I mean it."

Her face went red then white with rage. She moved over to the extremity of the seat as though to show Neal just how offended she was, but he ignored her gesture.

My own idea is that he was about fed up; that her hold on him was a precarious one which was wearing thin under her own actions and words.

Barry and Orton came racing across the platform to us. Barry was puffing like a tortoise. Orton loped along as easily as Neal or Duncan might have done. They piled in and Orton said:

"I'm awfully sorry to hold up the works, Neal. I met a fellow I know and in talking to him I forgot to watch the time."

"Oke," said Neal. "Forget it."
Not another word was spoken until we reached Hill House. Intuitively Barry and Orton must have known there was friction.

When we reached the inn we went directly to the tiny house equipped with showers and dressing cabinets which Mrs. Peake had arranged for bathers. I was looking around admiringly when I heard Josie say:

"Coral Easton, I've stood all the interference and insinuations from you that I intend to. Neal told you just now that we are perfectly capable of settling any difficulty we may have without any of your help.

I tell you the same; and more than that, the very next time you stick your nose into what is none of your business, that day you, bag and baggage, leave Hill House. Do you understand that?"

Josie was standing squarely in front of Coral. Ruthless determination was on her face and in her voice, though she was shaking as though in the tremors of a severe chill. I was sure it was anger rather than cold which so affected her, and I wondered if tears, the usual accompaniment of such a strain, would follow.

Coral glared at her in return.
"The very idea of your daring to speak to me like this," she declared dramatically. "And as for my leaving Hill House, I think Neal will have something to say about that."

"Neal has nothing to do with whoever stays at Hill House or goes," retorted Josie, "and for your information, if you're contemplating marrying him, I'll tell you that he never will have you."

Coral's face changed.

"What do you mean?" she gasped.

"You heard me," Josie, with scornful expression, turned away.
"Just remember it. Every word is truth." With that she walked into one of the cubicles and firmly closed the door.

When I was dressed, I called to her:

"I'm going to my room, Josie. As soon as you're ready come for me."
"I will, thanks." Her voice was as blithe and gay as though she had not just been engaged in battle with a woman she detested. There was stronger stuff in Josie than I had thought.

I went to my room and sat down by the window. The fog was as thick as ever. I could only see a few yards from my window, but I wasn't interested in the view. I wanted to ponder the past few hours, try to bring a semblance of order into my own thoughts.

Who was Alan Murray? I didn't know. Rhoda did, but from her few words I couldn't glean any information. From Josie's angry retort to Neal, I did gather two things.

First: Josie liked Alan Murray and Neal didn't. Second: Alan's mother was a friend of Miss Ivy New-comb's.

I wondered if it were solely for the last reason that Neal so hotly pursued Josie up the beach. It didn't seem to me quite the thing
a modern young physician would do, down thumbs on a young fellow merely because the other's mother was the friend of a spiteful old woman. A woman, moreover, who was a blood relation to the doctor's stepmother.

FOREIGN INVESTMENT

AS Americans begin to have money burning holes in their pockets again, the thrifty ones start looking around for places to invest it. And many of them are doubtless thinking of foreign investments.

Up jumps Roger W. Babson, veteran of many a financial war, and says "Don't!" He has never favored the buying of government bonds, he says, except those of the United States and Canada, and is now more opposed than ever to pouring American money into foreign treasuries.

The small nations of northwestern Europe have kept their bonds in the investment class, he concedes, but the war has badly jolted them. The big nations are adding tremendous and unpredictable war debts to obligations already so great that they may never be paid. Between the debts on which our European war debtors have suspended payments, we could probably add up enough sour bonds to pay half our present national debt if we had the money. Why throw billions away?

Some of those foreign loans probably helped foreign business and created foreign good will in ways that brought part of our money back indirectly. But mostly it has been lost forever. If our investors must take a chance, better take it at home. As Mr. Babson poetically expresses it, Americans should "dig for diamonds in their own backyards."

KILLING OUR BEST

A PESSIMISTIC picture is painted by Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, Harvard anthropologist. Modern warfare kills the "biologically sound", those who are physically ablest and best, leaving the deformed, unfit and insane to carry on the species and inviting the propagation of a "race of imbeciles."

"What we should do," he insists, "is to divert a modicum of that high intelligence and creative ability which is too nearly monopolized by mechanical science to the study of ways and means of repairing and improving the human machine. We must build the future of humanity, if there is to be any future, not upon mechanical science, which is up to this point the greatest human achievement, but upon man's biology, of which we know virtually nothing."

There is obviously danger along the line suggested by Dr. Hooton. It is natural that a scholar interest in the physical side of man should worry most about that. What many others are worrying about is the human soul and what this material civilization is doing to it.

World At A Glance

WHILE NOBODY doubts that Roosevelt's and State Secretary Hull's sympathies are entirely on the side of the European democratic countries against the totalitarian lineup, it doesn't follow that they do not think Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Edouard Daladier of France have bungled their old world policies.

There's no quotable authority for it, but Washington's general impression is that the White House tenant and his cabinet chief regard these two government heads as having been completely out-smarted by Herr Hitler. And it's said they haven't much patience with such a couple of supposedly top-notch statesmen for being diplomatized half to death by Berlin's presumably semi-nutty, formerly house-painting Fuhrer.

It seems to be the administration's theory that, had Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier stood pat against Germany a good deal sooner, there needn't have been any war.

NOT VERY DEMOCRATIC
The theory seems to be that the pair of them are mildly Fascist themselves. They're anti-

BRITISH STOP U. S. SHIP
WASHINGTON—No one in Washington is advertising it, but already there is British interference with American shipping in certain areas. Kept in the dark, but significant has been the British detention of a vessel belonging to the American West African Line which was carrying supplies to Monrovia, Liberia, to build the American Legation.

The vessel was held up by the British at the port of Freetown on the coast of Sierra Leone, a British West African possession. The vessel was searched and finally released.

The supplies for the American Legation were carried under the diplomatic seal of the United States, but despite this they apparently aroused British suspicion.

State Department officials are mystified as to why the British were interested in these supplies. Their only explanation is that the supplies might have included dynamite for blasting the foundation of the legation building. The new legation will stand upon a rocky point.

The American West African Line flies the American flag, and its agency is the Barber Steamship Line of New York.

NOTE—During the first part of the World War the search and seizure of American vessels by the British caused almost as much official American resentment as German submarine sinkings. Some State Department protests sent to England were just as vigorous as those sent to Germany.

NO WAR TYCOONS

One important factor behind the President's plan to disband the War Resources Board was a short paragraph buried in the 1939 version of the Army's Industrial Mobilization Plan which he did not see.

The Mobilization Plan is the blueprint of a semi-dictatorial super-government which the General Staff proposes in case the U. S. becomes involved in war, and here is the paragraph which Roosevelt missed:

"The personnel to fill positions of responsibility in the War Resources Administration should be obtained from the patriotic business leaders of the nation. The effect of strong and intelligent cooperation is more important and will do more to secure voluntary cooperation of industry and civilian population than will any arbitrary regulations or organization charts that may be prepared, no matter how they may appear."

League Hears Address By University Speaker

Mrs. Mary Gerlaugh
Discusses Task
With Children

Twenty members of the Child Conservation League gathered in the New American Hotel Coffee Shop Tuesday for the luncheon meeting at which Mrs. Mary Gerlaugh, child development and family relationship specialist of Ohio State University, was guest speaker.

Mrs. Emmitt L. Crist, chairman of the program committee, introduced Mrs. Gerlaugh after the business session was opened by Mrs. G. D. Phillips, president. "Making the Most of Our Children" was the subject of Mrs. Gerlaugh's talk. She began by saying that we first look after the physical needs of children. Parents first should be guides of the children because their only way of learning is by experience, learning right from wrong by the response of parents. It is better she said to make things satisfactory rather than unsatisfactory, to try to find things for them to do rather than to stress the "don't's." During the period including the third year they learn by touch, inanimate objects appealing to them.

In the second period children learn by asking questions and are particularly interested in living and moving things. Parents should encourage their thirst for knowledge through books, particularly, and also should encourage their confidence in their parents. Mrs. Gerlaugh spoke of the thirst for companionship which comes early in the life of a child. She said to encourage this as it is essential to healthy growth.

She advised giving children something interesting to do in order to have them responsible and dependable. They should be taught to care for their own needs and to assume regular tasks and to do them daily. She stressed the idea that parents should strive for regularity and not perfection in the children's work.

She advised stressing the children's successes and achievements and having faith in your own child. She said that a child should be taught to fight his own battles and should be taught some religion or spiritual truth to make it realize that "life is good."

The speaker answered many questions asked at the close of her talk.

Members of the club decided to present the Clare Tree Major play for children, "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," November 30 at 1:15 p. m., the place to be announced later. Mrs. Sterling Lamb was named chairman of the play and will announce her assisting committees later.

Mrs. Paul Miller was elected to membership in place of Mrs. Forrest Brown, formerly Miss Helen Yates. The club membership is limited to 30.

ED DIECKMANN—CENTER

ONE of the reasons for Ohio Wesleyan's comeback in football this fall is big Ed Dieckmann, above, sophomore center on the Bishop team. Dieckmann prepped at Cincinnati Hughes. After defeating Alma and Youngstown, the Bishops are to meet DePaul, Ohio, Case, Miami, Western Reserve, Centre, Baldwin-Wallace and Dayton in that order.

TERRY OBTAINS PAUL DEAN FROM CARDINAL CHAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—Bill Terry pulled one out of the hat at the major league draft meeting and came up with Paul Dean.

Unable to pitch because of a sore arm for the last three seasons, the junior Dean wound up the past campaign at Columbus and that made him eligible for the draft.

Only thirteen players were drafted at the meeting. Apparently the prize of the lot is Johnny Babich, the ex-Dodger, drafted by the Athletics from Kansas City.

Other ex-big leaguers to be granted a new chance are St. Johnson, selected by the Phillies from Rochester; Alan Strange, the short-stopper, picked by the Browns from Seattle; Elton Hoggsett by the Phils from Minneapolis, and Jake Mooty by the Cubs from Syracuse.

Varsity Squad At Work For Friday's Booster Game On Tiger Field

VET TACKLE QUITS SQUAD

Changes Made For Contest At Lancaster To Stand For Another Week

Just how far back Circleville High School's Tigers can come after their 51-0 thumping at Lancaster last week remains to be seen. But, from the interest and enthusiasm shown on the practice field this week, the Red and Black varsity will not be a pushover for Greenfield McClain's invaders Friday evening in the booster game, proceeds of the contest going to persons who financed the lighting system now in use at the school field.

The Tigers were whipped soundly by the Lancaster crew. The score didn't need to be that big because Coach Roy Black substituted freely and the Lancaster coach didn't, but the fact remains that Lancaster finished on top 51-0. Coach Black was trying to get through the game without injury to any of his boys and he accomplished that goal. All his athletes are ready for Greenfield's invasion, ready to give their last iota of strength and ability to avenge the 73-0 defeat hung on them last year by Coach Red Armstrong and his crowd.

Hill Leaves Squad

The Red and Black squad has been reduced by one member, Harold Hill, senior tackle, turning in his uniform. His place will be taken over by Johnny Sabine, scrapping and capable sophomore lineman. Sabine started the Lancaster game and played in much of it, winning favorable comment from Lancaster sports writers.

Coach Black and his aide, Tom Armstrong, are not contemplating any drastic changes in the lineup. Several changes made during the Lancaster game are expected to stand. Among them include Staley and Warner at the guards and Orr at right end. Walters will be at the other end, Liston at the other tackle, Brown at center, Smith at quarterback, Eby and Jenkins at the halves and Bowsher at fullback.

Backing up these boys will be a squad of boys all eager to get into the fray and trained well enough to give good accounts of themselves.

Bank on Newland

Greenfield will bank on the ability of Eldon Newland to outsmart the Tiger squad. Newland, a hold-over from last year, plays halfback but calls the plays, passes, punts and runs with the ball. Others in the ball totting department include Payne at fullback, Robinson at quarterback and Miller at halfback, although this Miller is not the Lefty Miller who started at fullback and was forced to give up because of appendicitis.

The McClain line will likely include Newell and Morgan at the ends, Schmidt and Orr at the tackles, Stewart and Pollard at the guards and Daniels at center. This team started last week against London in the game that Greenfield lost 9-6. Orr at right tackle started his first game for McClain and Morgan who plays beside him has replaced Don Grate, sophomore end who is out with a broken arm.

Officials for the Friday night joust include Rodney Ross, Harley Pearce and Doc Donaldson. Game time is 8 o'clock.

COLONELS GAIN 3-2 EDGE OVER RED WING CREW

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4 — Louisville's Colonels, American Association champions, held a 3-2 edge in games today over Rochester of the International League in the four-out-of-seven series last night, winning 5 to 2 behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Weaver.

Immediately after the game, both teams headed for Rochester, N. Y., where the remaining game or games will be played.

FORMER RED INFIELDER SEES YANKS AS VICTORS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—Morris Rath, famous infielder with the champion Cincinnati Reds of 1919, regretfully predicted today that the New York Yankees are about to win their fourth straight world series.

"The Reds are going to need more than a great manager such as Bill McKeechie and a couple of ace pitchers like Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters to throttle a team like the Yankees," Rath said.

PUMPKIN SHOW DIRECTORS MEET TO DISCUSS MORE DETAILS OF FESTIVAL

BUSINESS AREA TRAFFIC TO BE HALTED EARLIER

Society Appropriates $200 To Pay Special Policemen During Week

PATROL DETAIL ASSURED

Conservation Department To Send Exhibit To City For Big Event

Circleville's downtown district will be closed to traffic on Tuesday, October 17, the day before the opening of the annual Pumpkin Show if the request of show officials meets the approval of the state highway department.

Directors of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, sponsor of the show, meeting Tuesday night in the council chamber, asked Karl J. Hermann, a director of the society and safety director of the city, to contact the highway department about closing the district.

The directors believe it is hazardous to traffic and to persons working in the downtown district to have the streets open on Tuesday. In previous years the streets were closed on Wednesday.

The society appropriated $200 to the city, this amount to be used for special police during the show. Some members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will serve as special police during the celebration. Other residents who have served as special police in previous years are asked to contact the safety director or chief of police. The directors established the wages for special police, watchmen and laborers at 25 cents an hour.

To Bring Radio Mayor W. B. Cady, president of the society, announced he had contacted the State Highway Patrol and a detail of patrolmen will be provided for the celebration. The patrol expects to have a portable broadcasting outfit in operation during the celebration. Two Columbus detectives will be on hand to watch for pickpockets.

Directors were informed that an exhibit of the conservation department would be sent to the show this year. For a number of years efforts have been made to obtain an exhibit. It is hoped a vacant storeroom may be obtained for the exhibit. In the event a storeroom cannot be obtained the exhibit will be held in a tent.

Directors were told there is some confusion this year about donations for the celebration. Some merchants, it was reported, have confused the sale of stamps and advertising for the premium books with donations. The sale of the stamps is for memberships in the society. Memberships are $1. Advertising in the premium books is not considered as donations.

More Protection Asked Herman Hill, director in charge of the pumpkin display, said a request had been received from one exhibitor for more protection for the exhibit. In previous years many pumpkins have been stolen. Mr. Hill was instructed to employ more watchmen.

The directors turned down the request of a representative of an out of town concern to have an exhibit. This exhibit, directors said, would be in competition with some local stores.

In general the plans for the show are practically complete. Another meeting will be held on October 16 to discuss final details.

GIRL SCOUT EXHIBIT TO BE HELD IN FALL EVENT

Announcement was made Wednesday that a Girl Scout exhibit will be held in connection with the Junior Fair of the Pumpkin Show. This department was not included in the premium list.

George D. McDowell, Junior Fair director, said the exhibit will be under the supervision of Miss Ruth Stout and Miss Mariel Sayre. There is one troop of Girl Scouts in the city. A premium list will be prepared, Mr. McDowell said.

Many Boys and Girls To Attend O. S. U. Day

Elaborate preparations for the entertainment and safety of Circleville and Pickaway County boys and girls attending Ohio State University's annual High School Day Saturday are being made by the university.

Between 75 and 85 Circleville High School boys and girls will participate in the event and at least 200 Pickaway County youngsters are taking advantage of the university's program.

Twenty-eight university departments are arranging exhibits and demonstrations for Saturday morning, starting at 10:30. These will be followed by the showing of motion pictures taken at high school day activities of last year, giving many of the young visitors an opportunity to see themselves on the screen.

At 2 p. m. the students and their chaperons will be in the stands at Ohio Stadium, ready for the opening whistle in the game between Ohio State and Missouri, two teams meeting for the first time on the gridiron.

Ohio State's famed marching band is planning a special show in honor of the high school guests, band members having returned a week before the opening of school to start their practice.

The State Highway Patrol is aiding with Saturday's arrangements, to facilitate movement of the heavy volume of traffic and also to protect the boys and girls.

Every school bus will be stopped by a patrolman as it approaches Columbus. Drivers will be given directions to the proper parking lot, and students will be given safety suggestions. After the game officers will again be on the job, seeking to insure the safety of the school parties on their return trips.

Invitations to this year's High School Day, the seventh at Ohio State, were extended to juniors and seniors in 1262 high schools of the state.

Leader Of Senate Forces Says Adolf Hoping To Halt End Of Embargo

Senator Connally To Talk For F. D.'s Plan; Solon From Michigan Next

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—Adolf Hitler is holding off his bombers and heaviest artillery in the European war pending the outcome of the neutrality law fight in the special session of congress.

That is the view of a leader in senate administration ranks expressed today in a "background" interview.

This leader believes Hitler's inaction may be attributed to his anxiety to avert passage of the administration bill permitting sale of munitions to belligerents. If the bill is passed, he thinks pressure for a "reasonable" peace offer to the allies by Hitler will be greatly increased.

Opponents of the administration bill fighting arms embargo repeal countered this viewpoint with private assertions that the measure is a dangerous impetus for continuation of the war. Senator Nye (R) North Dakota, and others said they feared passage of the legislation would stiffen British and French resistance to any peace proposals Hitler may make.

Connally First

Opposing lines in the battle were holding firmly today, with debate renewal scheduled at noon when Senator Connally (D) Texas argues the administration case. When he concludes Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, prominent candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will make the opposition reply.

Connally said he planned to "dispose of the false argument of the opposition that embargo repeal means war" in his talk. Vandenberg said he intended to try and convince the congress and the people that repeal is dangerous, and that the strong restrictive provisions of the bill will be improved by retaining the embargo.

The administration cause was bolstered today by a vigorous defense of the repeal bill and its provisions prohibiting American ships from hauling any cargoes at all to belligerents, sounded by Senator Norris (R) Nebraska. One of the senate's veterans, Norris is the only living member of the senate who voted against American entry into the World War.

Nine of the 12 instructors in home economics in county schools met Tuesday in the county school offices to discuss participation of schools in the Junior Fair of the Pumpkin Show.

The teachers drew numbers for exhibit spaces. Sketches are to be submitted on the types of displays desired for the exhibits of the schools.

Some changes in premium listings were made. A class for needlework was added. Under the education exhibit the listing "nutrition" was changed to "nutrition and foods" so a food exhibit could be included. The listing of "canning" was changed to "food preservation" so jellies, preserves, jams, etc., could be included in the display.

Entry lists for the exhibits are to be submitted by October 14. The meeting was in charge of Miss Charlotte Rhodes, home economics instructor of Walnut Township School.

veteran legislator and the man who bucked the strongest kind of public opinion to cast a vote against U. S. participation in the last war, Norris called on the nation to support the proposed embargo repeal and American shipping prohibitions in the administration bill.

"It seems clear," he told a radio audience, "that unless a change is made in our present law the arms embargo without restrictions on non-war shipping, the chances are that we will eventually be brought into the war."

HOME ECONOMIC INSTRUCTORS IN DISPLAY CONFAB

Nine of the 12 instructors in home economics in county schools met Tuesday in the county school offices to discuss participation of schools in the Junior Fair of the Pumpkin Show.

The teachers drew numbers for exhibit spaces. Sketches are to be submitted on the types of displays desired for the exhibits of the schools.

Some changes in premium listings were made. A class for needlework was added. Under the education exhibit the listing "nutrition" was changed to "nutrition and foods" so a food exhibit could be included. The listing of "canning" was changed to "food preservation" so jellies, preserves, jams, etc., could be included in the display.

Entry lists for the exhibits are to be submitted by October 14. The meeting was in charge of Miss Charlotte Rhodes, home economics instructor of Walnut Township School.

veteran legislator and the man who bucked the strongest kind of public opinion to cast a vote against U. S. participation in the last war, Norris called on the nation to support the proposed embargo repeal and American shipping prohibitions in the administration bill.

"It seems clear," he told a radio audience, "that unless a change is made in our present law (the arms embargo without restrictions on non-war shipping), the chances are that we will eventually be brought into the war."
